Much to my surprise, when we brought our new puppy Mickey home, our peaceful house became a madhouse. Our first dog, Archie, was fighting with Mickey, Mickey was eating everything in sight, and Mickey continually growled at my children each time they came down the stairs. My dogs were triggering me, my anxiety escalated, and the dogs became unmanageable. I realized that the problem was not my dogs', it was mine. This book decodes what specific dog behaviors mirror in us. With this understanding, our fears are no longer triggered. When we are not reactive, we embody leadership and dog training happens naturally. I am so grateful that Mickey and Archie taught me how to release my deepest fears. By utilizing this book, your dogs will also teach you the source of your fears and help you heal. As a bonus, your household will be peaceful and your animals a joy.
